Hi there!

I'm Kasseem

I'm — an emerging interior designer from Tunisia, currently studying at ISBAS Sousse.

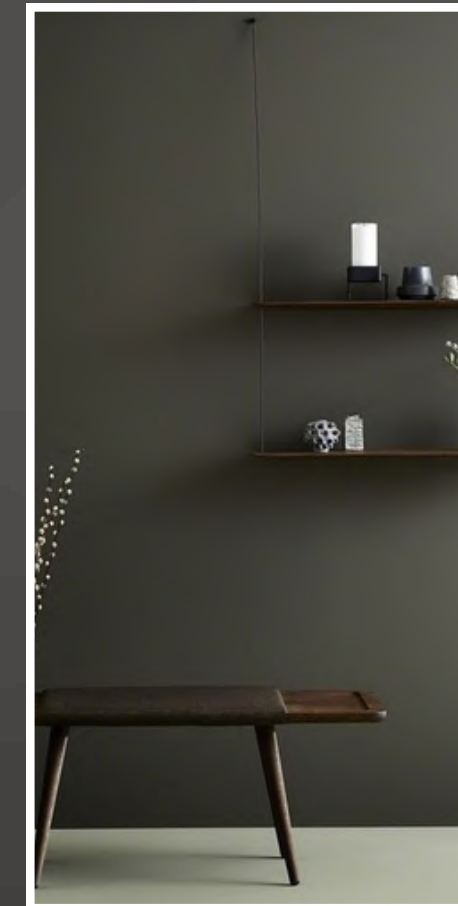

I specialize in creating functional, human-centered spaces with a focus on balanced aesthetics and smart design solutions. My work is guided by clarity, rational creativity, and a strong commitment to detail.

Through my projects and internships, I've developed solid skills in AutoCAD, SketchUp, Enscape, and Photoshop, enabling me to transform ideas into immersive spatial experiences. I believe that great design is a conversation between logic and emotion — and I strive to reflect that in every project.

Project 01

Through this villa renovation project, I had the opportunity to put my technical and creative skills into practice in a real context, while respecting the client's budgetary, aesthetic and functional constraints.

Project 02

This renovation project for a preparatory room in a primary school allowed me to explore in depth the design of an educational space dedicated to young children, taking into account their specific needs in terms of safety, comfort and cognitive stimulation.

Project 03

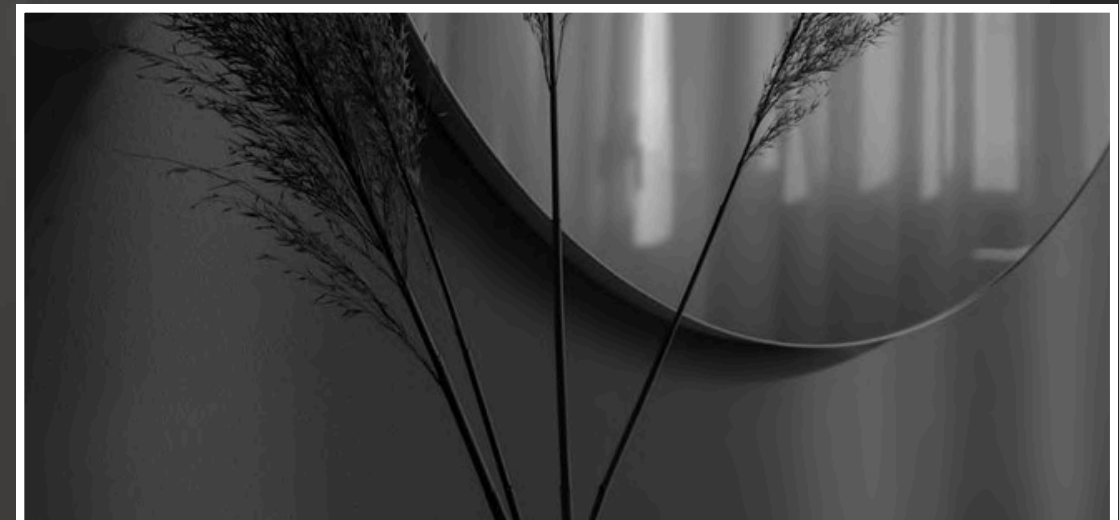

This third project, dedicated to the design of a traditional hammam in a guesthouse, allowed me to further develop my skills in designing spaces that combine comfort, tradition, and contemporary technical requirements.
